

During the 2002 campaign year, Vice President Cheney took at least 37 trips involving at least 86 destinations to conduct campaign-related activities, at an estimated cost of $1.8 million. Taking into account estimated reimbursements, the net cost to the taxpayer for these flights was $1.7 million. The map below tracks the Vice President's campaign-related travel during the ten-month period prior to Election Day, 2002. Hold your cursor over each destination dot to reveal the details of the campaign stop.

Documents and Links

- Report on Presidential and Vice Presidential Political Travel
- See the President's Political Travels